Literacy

Read the information below and answer the questions that follow.

Children soon pick up messages about how difference is valued by others around them. Sometimes our own embarrassment about difference gives children confusing or negative images about difference. For example, a child who sees someone sitting in a wheelchair for the first time is likely to stare at the person. If his/her caregiver feels embarrassed and scolds the child for staring, the child is likely to think that there is something shameful about being in a wheelchair. In this way the child may begin to develop a prejudice against people in wheelchairs.

1. How do children learn about how difference is valued?

2. What gives children negative messages about difference?

3. Why would a child stare at someone in a wheelchair?

4. Why would the caregiver scold the child for staring?
